Summer Food Service Program (SFSP) and Food Security at HUD-Subsidized Housing

Tuesday, August 11, 2020, 1:00 - 2:00 pm, ONLY $15
1 Continuing Education Unit

Join us on August 11th as there will still be time to learn about and implement the Summer Food Service Program (SFSP) at your HUD-subsidized property. Hear from HUD, USDA FNS, representatives from anti-hunger non-profit agencies, and meal sponsors to learn about the full life cycle of SFSP. There will be opportunities to ask questions, make connections and learn about the best practices in setting up this program. Help bring food security to your residents by becoming a SFSP host site for the remainder of summer, potentially the fall, and as you plan for the future.

Level: Beginner
Track: Elderly/Disabled, Family & Youth, Professional Development & Supervisory/Management
Format: Panel/Interactive/Q&A
HUD Category: Federal and Applicable State Programs and Eligibility (Statutorily Required Training Areas for New Hires)

Lewis Dorman is the Senior Account Executive at HUD's Office of Multifamily Housing in Boston since 2017. Lewis previously worked for HUD's Office of Public Housing in Boston and has been the Team Lead for HUD's collaboration with USDA FNS on the Summer Food Service Program for HUD-subsidized properties in New England. Lewis is passionate about providing shelter and strengthening food security for vulnerable New England populations.

Alicia Rampulla is the Program Specialist at USDA’s Food and Nutrition Service in Boston since 2009. She manages the Summer Food Service Program (SFSP) and the Child and Adult Care Food Program (CACFP). Alicia holds a PhD in Political Science from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst, and she is passionate about public service and improving the lives of underserved populations.

REGISTER AT NERSCINC.ORG

Supported by: